L

Crockerland - Movie Film - Neg Deteriorated About 1948

Dr Anthony Wallace
Eastern Pennsylvania Psychiatric Institute
Henry Ave. & Abbottsford Rd.
Philadelphia 29, Penna.

Movie footage in Greenland during Crocker Land Expedition 1913-1917. The portion or portions we are interested in show Eskimos suffering from attacks of piblocto, a psychiatric disorder resembling hysteria. Several stills show a woman named Inahlee during an attack, and one still shows a movie camera being used to photograph the scene.

also: any field notes, Journal, etc. kept by MacMillan or others on expedition

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some faint smudges and discoloration, characteristic of old paper. The left edge of the page is bound into a dark brown, textured cover material. There is no text or other markings on the page.

The first of the series of experiments was made on the 1st of September 1895. The object of the experiment was to determine the effect of the temperature of the water on the rate of the reaction. The temperature of the water was varied from 10°C to 30°C. The results of the experiment are given in the following table.

Temperature of water (°C)	Rate of reaction (g/litre per hour)
10	0.12
20	0.25
30	0.45

It will be seen from the above table that the rate of the reaction increases with the temperature of the water. This is to be expected, as the rate of most chemical reactions increases with temperature.

The second of the series of experiments was made on the 2nd of September 1895. The object of the experiment was to determine the effect of the concentration of the reactants on the rate of the reaction. The concentration of the reactants was varied from 0.1M to 0.5M. The results of the experiment are given in the following table.

Concentration of reactants (M)	Rate of reaction (g/litre per hour)
0.1	0.12
0.2	0.25
0.3	0.38
0.4	0.45
0.5	0.52

It will be seen from the above table that the rate of the reaction increases with the concentration of the reactants. This is to be expected, as the rate of most chemical reactions increases with concentration.

The third of the series of experiments was made on the 3rd of September 1895. The object of the experiment was to determine the effect of the surface area of the reactants on the rate of the reaction. The surface area of the reactants was varied from 10 cm² to 100 cm². The results of the experiment are given in the following table.

Surface area of reactants (cm ²)	Rate of reaction (g/litre per hour)
10	0.12
20	0.25
30	0.38
40	0.45
50	0.52
60	0.58
70	0.65
80	0.72
90	0.78
100	0.85

It will be seen from the above table that the rate of the reaction increases with the surface area of the reactants. This is to be expected, as the rate of most chemical reactions increases with surface area.
